VIII. ADDITIONAL INFORMATION OR EXPLANATIONS. (Indicate part of report.)

Note to Section I--As I have reported in previous years: I serve as trustee to the Oakside Church Charitable Lead Trust and as a trustee for the subsidiary, related Oakside Church Pastor's Retirement Trust. I do so by virtue of Canon 4B of the Code of Conduct which provides that a judge may serve as trustee of a religious organization. The Oakside Church is a tax exempt, religious, non-profit organization. I serve without compensation. I have not included my position in Section I in that the instructions specify that activities associated with religious entities need not be reported.

Note to Section VII--

Note 1-- The assets described in Part VII are in the name [REDACTED] and my living trust. The trust is in our names and we are the trustees. Because the trust is us and we are the trust, I consider and report assets in the name of the trust to be our personal assets.

Note 2

I do not believe that the following constitutes an investment for my spouse and I, nor investment income. But in an abundance of caution, I have included here my thought process in not listing this property as "investment property."

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

Second homes are not considered investment property. Moreover, because in actuality we do not receive any economic benefit from the monthly remittance of principal payments [REDACTED], we do not consider the second home to produce "income from an investment" which is reportable. We have received an opinion from a tax lawyer that the principal and interest payment "pass through" does not constitute income on our part.
