VIII. ADDITIONAL INFORMATION OR EXPLANATIONS. (Indicate part of report.)

Note 1: Regarding lines 55 thru 66 and lines 69 thru 83: As requested by the Committee in a prior year, information is provided on these lines regarding the investment components of the annuities in the two Roth IRA accounts. Filer is reporting this information in the same format as was reported in the financial disclosures in 2016, 2017, 2018 & 2019. The end-of-year reporting received from the brokerage firm by the filer reflects the gross values of each annuity -- not the individual amounts attributable to any particular investment (and the filer does not control these investment decisions). The information available to filer includes the percentages attributable to each investment vehicle in each annuity, so those percentages are shown in the financial disclosure. Therefore the component investments and respective percentages have been reported on the lines immediately below each annuity to reflect the makeup of the investments in each annuity. The lines under columns B and C have been left blank for the investment components of the annuity, while the lines next to the overall annuity have been filled in with the appropriate cumulative information about the respective annuity's value, etc. based on the year-end information provided to the filer. It should also be noted that the filer does not receive information about how individual investment vehicles in the annuities perform, and the ultimate value of the annuities is tied to contractual death benefits, lifetime annuity payments, surrender value and other factors rather than simply the performance of specific investment components. Since no dividends are made to filer, and since the information available to filer is primarily tied to the increase or decrease in overall value of the policies and the makeup of the investments, Column B-1 next to each annuity has been left blank, and Column B-2 has been marked None.

Note 2: Line 3 reflects the fact that FirstBank acquired Franklin Synergy Bank, so there has been a name change on the account.

Note 3: Line 108 reflects a name change from Allianzgi Global Water Fund to Virtus Allianzgi Water Fund.
